

Why is this report being released?

The Government has introduced gender pay gap (GPG) regulations which are designed to encourage employers to take informed action to reduce their GPG where one exists.

These regulations came into force in April 2017 and require large employers to report their GPG data.

We are committed to ensuring that everyone in the company has an equal chance of success and that women and men with the same performance and experience in equivalent roles are paid equally.

How is the Gender Pay Gap calculated?

Gender pay, as defined by the legislation, is distinct from equal pay as it is not measuring pay for roles of the same level. Instead, it compares the average pay of all the men with all the women in the company regardless of role or seniority.

The Gender Pay Gap at CACI Ltd

- Whilst our GPG data shows a pay gap between men and women, this is due to the higher number of men at senior levels.
- When we take the mean (average) hourly rates across the whole company, women are paid 12.3% less because women are outnumbered by men in senior roles.
- When we look at bonus pay, our average GPG rises to 26.3%. Again, this is because there are significantly more men at senior levels.

Women's hourly rate is	12.3% lower (mean)	16.8% lower (median)
Women's bonus pay is	26.3% lower (mean)	-25.9% lower (median)
Proportion receiving bonuses	67.19% of females	79.67% of males

In 2022, the UK Private Sector GPG mean was 15.4% (compared to CACI Ltd 12.3%) - source: ONS.
